

WOULD YOU, OR SOMEONE YOU KNOW BENEFIT FROM WORKING WITH US?

Are you having problems with your husband/wife/partner/anyone at home?
Has someone hurt you?

Are you worried about the impact that domestic abuse has had on your children?

Are you concerned about your abusive behaviour towards loved ones?

Are you ever afraid of, humiliated or hurt by anyone?

Has anyone done something of a sexual nature that made you feel bad or physically hurt you?

Are you harming others
by your behaviour?

Do you feel valued and respected by the people in your family?

Our Interpersonal Trauma Response Service works with anyone who has experienced domestic or sexual abuse. That may be current or a long time ago, but is likely to be impacting you in many ways.

We are also able to work with people that recognise that their behaviour may be harming their loved ones.

WE KEEP PEOPLE SAFE AND HELP REBUILD THEIR LIVES FREE FROM FEAR.

FearFree helps over 10,000 adults and children every year who have experienced or witnessed domestic abuse, sexual violence, or stalking. From the first point of contact, we are there to help our clients. Our support is tailored to the person's needs and experiences, helping them right from crisis intervention, through to 1-to-1 or group work recovery sessions, to specialised employment and education programmes.

On average, 80% of perpetrators have experienced a form of abuse themselves. We run programmes for people who have behaved in a harmful way, helping them learn new strategies and techniques to stop it happening again. By supporting people to parent in a non-abusive way, we help break the cycle of abuse.

We change lives, provide hope for the future, and give people the opportunity and skills to flourish in their future relationships. No matter the gender, race, sexual orientation, religion, or age, our services are inclusive and offer no bounds.

NOT JUST FOR THE SHORT TERM, NOT JUST UNTIL THE NEXT TIME. BUT PERMANENTLY.

WHAT WE DO

DOMESTIC ABUSE

People often believe domestic abuse only involves physical violence. However it can incorporate a range of behaviours that can be just as frightening and isolating as physical harm. Domestic abuse can be present in any intimate or familial relationship. 1 in 3 women and 1 in 6 men will experience domestic abuse in their lifetime.

Domestic abuse falls under 4 main strands:

- Physical Abuse - Pushing, shoving, or restraining you as well as punching, kicking and strangulation.
- Emotional/Coercive Abuse - Belittling or humiliating behaviour, undermining your self-esteem, monitoring your movements, or controlling your freedom or ability to make decisions. Blaming you for any disagreements or violence (gas-lighting), threatening or manipulating behaviour.
- Economic Abuse - Controlling your access to money or ability to earn money or debt in your name.
- Sexual Abuse - Manipulating you or forcing you to do something sexual you don't feel comfortable doing or have not given consent to.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE

When we hear the word 'violence', we think of a physical act of aggression, but sexual violence doesn't always include this. We use the term sexual violence to indicate the lasting effects that non-consensual acts can have on a survivor. Any type of sexual activity, including online, that is unwanted or without consent is classed as sexual violence. This act of abuse can happen to anyone, regardless of age, gender, sexual orientation, race, or background.

It is important to recognise that sexual violence does not have to involve physical contact and may involve non-contact incidents. Such as, verbal sexual harassment, threats of sexual violence, grooming, unwanted sexual communications, and illicit images.

FearFree is a service available to all, regardless of when the incident took place, or whether you decide to report to the police. Our ITRS Practitioners can provide support to any victim of sexual violence, alongside advocacy through the Criminal Justice System.

STALKING

With the advancements of technology and social media, the likelihood of stalking is higher than ever before. Stalking is a repeated pattern of behaviour that causes a person to feel frightened, nervous or in danger. The behaviour can include unwanted contact by phone, social media or email, or unwanted visits to your workplace, home address or other places you regularly frequent. Stalking behaviour can be perpetrated by a stranger, someone you know or a previous partner.

Some key signs of stalking include:

- Obtaining details before you provide them
- Monitoring you constantly
- Showing up, out of the blue

CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE

FearFree are seeing more and more children and young people experiencing domestic abuse, which can be very traumatic and damaging. FearFree provides support to children age five and upwards, in partnership with the non-abusing parent or carer, alongside other professionals. The service will improve safety and promote recovery. Support can be offered to children and young people who have witnessed domestic abuse, or those who are experiencing domestic abuse in an intimate relationship.
